p.MsoNormal, li.MsoNormal, div.MsoNormal { margin: 0in 0in 0.0001pt; font-size: 12pt; font-family: Times; }div.Section1 { page: Section1; } This book is playful. It is an invitation to a party. Imaginative and beguiling, it is also deceptive: not one if its pages preaches about art; yet none teaches anything else. So begins 100 Ways To Have Fun With An Alligator, unlike any other art activity book on the market. First published in 1969, it is a product of that boundary breaking era, but its ideas are so fresh they beckon us even today. The projects in this book use materials as mundane as paper and cloth, as available as shadows and one's own voice, and as minimally challenging as a camera. Some involve hands-on techniques such as drawing, painting, sculpting and collage, while others are more theatrical: celebrating a poet's birthday and free associating about a color. Other fascinating ideas include: screening an industrial film and asking students to match music to it, designing a card asking for something without words and - of course - 100 ways to have fun with an alligator, which include buy him some rose-colored glasses and teach him to make lasagna. In the introduction, Albert Bush-Brown, a former president of the Rhode Island School of Design says of Art: Everyone is invited. There should be banners and flags, shadows and lights, beacons and fountains, with lots of color and pictures on the walls. There should be games to play, poems to read, surprises, toys and musical instruments to bang and blow. You would be invited. The invitations would be works of art; your acceptance would decorate the hall. This is the spirit of 100 Ways to Have Fun With An Alligator.

This hands-on book gives children the what, the how and the why to understanding the biggest challenges in the world --- one child, and one action, at a time! This interactive activity book shows children that they can help to make the world a better place. Divided into three sections --- people, community and planet --- each chapter is devoted to one of 12 specific challenges the world faces, from extreme poverty and universal education, to jobs and diversity, to clean energy and environmental conservation. Based on the "learn, think, act" teaching framework, it provides background information, fun activities and ideas for how to help solve each challenge. The goal is to pique children's curiosity about the world's challenges, engage their sense of responsibility, and empower them to do something --- a perfect recipe for creating engaged global citizens! With over 100 puzzles, games, craft activities, experiments and tips, authors and activists Karen Ng and Kirsten Liepmann seek to invite and encourage children to make a difference in their communities and the world. Throughout the book, children are introduced to keywords, concepts and basic information, broken down into manageable pieces and explored from a child's point of view. Covering science and social studies, this book provides a perfect jumping-off point for conversations about the environment, citizenship, local and global communities, economics, social justice and community involvement. Packed with curriculum-compliant activities, it could easily be tied directly to a classroom unit, with the class doing the activities together or as assignments on their own.

No theory. Just results. This is your side hustle "sampler platter" -- you'll get a quick profile of 100 different entrepreneurs to see: How they got their side hustle idea How much it cost to start How they found their initial traction or customers Their favorite marketing strategies How long it took to reach $1000 in profit Their mistakes along the way and more According to a recent study, 69% of Americans have less than $1,000 in a savings account. Worse, 45% reported having $0 in a savings account! I don't have to tell you--if you're in that position, you know it's a fragile way to live. You're one unexpected expense, one missed paycheck, one surprise layoff away from taking on more debt. This book is about creating some financial margin in your life. What do I mean by margin? Margin is the gap between your income and your expenses. If you're living paycheck to paycheck, or spending nearly everything you make, you don't have any margin. Think of it like financial breathing room. Life becomes a lot less stressful and a lot more fun when you have some breathing room in your budget. But the truth is, most people don't. Nearly four out of five families live paycheck to paycheck. It doesn't have to be that way. Real people are making real money on the side--on their own terms. This book shares their stories. Scroll up and order now to start (or accelerate) your own side hustle journey! I'd love to include YOU in the sequel :)

100 Ways To Cook Potatoes is an attempt to showcase how the most common vegetable is culinarily so versatile. It is aimed towards not only those who love the potato and love trying different ways to cook it but also towards those who find it a boring vegetable. The author modestly challenges them to use this book and find out how this boring vegetable can be made interesting. Written in an easy-to-follow style, the author has given nutritional analysis at the end of each recipe. Through this book the author has attempted to solve the problem of many home cooks who wonder how to make a meal nutritious and as tasty as well.

Text and illustrations use different objects in counting to one hundred. Readers are asked to find one item in each group of one hundred that is different from the rest.

Whether you're self-employed, a middler manager, or a Fortune 500 executive, it's easy to get stuck in a humdrum life and only fantasize about what could have been. Motivational speaker Steve Chandler helps you transform what could have been into what will be. You'll learn numerous techniques for breaking down negative barriers and letting go of pessimistic thoughts that prevent you from fulfilling, or even allowing yourself to conceive of, your goals and dreams. Drawing on many years of work in the field since the original publication of the book, Chandler has added numerous new stories, quotes, insights, and recommendations on how to reinvent yourself from the fictional, limited personality of old to a fresh level of creative action.

100 Ways to Motivate Others is the culmination of many years of successful leadership coaching and training by best-selling author Steve Chandler and attorney Scott Richardson, and the natural follow-up to Chandler's two previous best-sellers 100 Ways to Motivate Yourself and Reinventing Yourself. Chandler and Richardson have crafted a vital, user-friendly, inspirational guide for executives, managers, and professionals ... and those aspiring to reach that level.

What does it mean to be a cog in the educational system? This compilation of stories from a long and distinguished career in education will help those entering the field—or still in it—to understand the many pitfalls, heartbreaks, and limitations they'll face. But it will also be eye-opening for anyone with a stake in the world of education: parents, administrators, consultants, teachers, and just about anyone who hopes to live in a society where the education system actually serves those it's supposed to. Organized into ten lively chapters, it tackles the hard questions such as: getting hired, sexual harassment, racism towards teachers and students, paternalism, toxic positivity, dealing with crazy co-workers, and self-care. It speaks to the gaps, hidden agendas, and rules of the public education system from the point of view of a committed, long-time educator. Biting, insightful, infused with righteous anger...and frequently hilarious, 100 Ways to Kill a Teacher works as an early warning system to new teachers, as a guide for current educators, and as a great resource for parents.
